Working With Children Checks

Fundamental to every child-safe environment is the recruitment of staff and volunteers who are both competent and do not pose a risk to children.

One way this is done is by screening people who are involved with children in sport through Working With Children Checks. The Working With Children Check fact sheets are updated on the Play by the Rules website as laws change (as they recently did in NSW). Be sure to keep updated with the latest information to keep your sporting environment safe for all.

Gambling and amateur sport

What would you do if a betting agency started offering odds on your club's matches? Where does your club stand? If you are against gambling in amateur sports or fearful that it could ruin the integrity of your sport, don't just hold out for legislative change, because that may take a while. For the moment we have to rely on the integrity of local players and officials to keep sport fair. Read this article for some things your club can do to encourage fair play.

The Other Talk

The Australian Drug Foundation is encouraging parents to have 'The Other Talk' – a discussion about alcohol and other drugs and related issues such as peer pressure, health, parties, safety and expectations. The website provides great resources for parents wanting to learn about alcohol and drugs to protect their kids from associated harm.

Racism campaign a great success

Hot on the heels of the successful Play by the Rules/Racism It Stops With Me TV Community Service Announcement, which is received extensive national airplay and has been watched online over 240,000 times, we have just released six 30-second radio CSAs for the campaign. Featuring some of the biggest names in sport, the ads carry the same simple message – racism has no place in sport and everyone deserves a fair go, regardless of their skin colour, background or culture. You can listen to their messages, along with those from a range of other sporting legends on the Play by the Rules website.

Sporting webinars a hit

If you missed the recent iWebinar on 'Inclusion in sport' you can access the video presentation and FAQs here. Upcoming webinars are on Presentation skills for people in sport (1 August) and Making sport safe, fair and inclusive (22 August), which will discuss how your club and sport can benefit from using Play by the Rules. For details on how to register for these free webinars click here.

Local Sporting Champion grants program

This government initiative is designed to provide financial assistance to young people aged 12–18 towards the cost of travel, accommodation, uniforms or equipment when competing, coaching or officiating at an NSO endorsed state, national or international sporting championships. For details click here.

ASADA update on supplements

There have been a number of athletes who have been sanctioned recently due to testing positive for some substances commonly found in supplements. ASADA has provided repeated warning on these products, but it seems that athletes are still taking them. To help get the message across ASADA has developed a new learning update on their eLearning system and a new video which spells out the dangers.

Basketball – a Fair go Sport!

Fair go, sport!, the program aimed at making sport an inclusive and welcoming option for participants from Gay, Lesbian, Bisexual, Transgender and Intersex (GLBTI) communities, has been run under the direction of the Victorian Equal Opportunity and Human Rights Commission for the last few years. The Commission is now expanding the program to other sports and Basketball Victoria is one of the new Victorian State Sporting Associations to sign on, recently announcing that the 2013 Fair go, sport! Big V Finals Series will be tipping off in August. More details of the program will be publicised as it gets under way.

Training for the sports community

Volunteers are often thrown into the deep end with little training or preparation to assist them. To address this, Sports Community are now running a range of training courses to help train club volunteers in all aspects of running a club, from planning and setting goals, to fundraising and using social media to drive membership and participation. There are upcoming courses in Melbourne, Sydney, Brisbane and the Gold Coast. Click here for details.

Assault a player or official and go to jail

In May, the Northern Territory Government announced amendments to the Criminal Code Act for tougher penalties, which have the potential to impact NT sport and recreation organisations, including assaults on players, officials, coaches and other volunteers. The offence provision will apply when a worker is unlawfully assaulted while he or she is working in the performance of their duties. Under the new Act, it will see offenders sentenced to a minimum of three months jail for the first offence and 12 months for repeat offenders.

Be the 'go to' person in your club

Member Protection Information Officers (MPIOs) play an essential role in sport; they are the 'go to' person in a club who are responsible for providing information and options to a person making a complaint or raising a concern, as well as support during the process. If you are interested in being an MPIO for your club or sport then all you need to complete a free online training course and a face-to-face workshop organised in your state or territory. It's easy – click here for details.

Know an inspiring local basketballer?

Sensis are on the hunt for inspiring Australians to feature on the covers of their 2014/15 Yellow Pages and White Pages with the theme – Inspiring Others to Achieve, so Basketball Australia has put a call out to fans to nominate their most inspiring volunteer, coach, mentor or role model. For details go to www.whitepagescommunity.com.au (nominations close 14 July).

Great free course for officials

The ASC have developed the Introductory Officiating General Principles online course to assist officials in learning the basic skills they will need to officiate effectively, which is initially available free of charge to Australian officials. The course contains three modules, which cover a range of general officiating topics, including ethical responsibilities of officials, preparation for officiating, safety, communication, dealing with conflict and people management. Go on, take that first step to accreditation by registering here.

The Big Banter

"Children and young people are experts in their own lives and so, before I can work out what needs to be done, I need to ask the experts!", says Australia's first-ever Children's Commissioner Megan Mitchell, who is travelling all over the country talking to as many children and young people as she can. 'The Big Banter' is the Commissioner's way of listening to and speaking with children and young people and hearing their stories and issues. I bet she hears a sporting story or two on her travels! You can get involved by sharing your story at <http://somethingincommon.gov.au/thebigbanter>

Refugee sports sponsorships

Sport is an excellent way for young people to engage positively with their local communities, build confidence and a sense of belonging. The Refugee Youth Sports Sponsorship Program, developed by the NSW Community Relations Commission, aims to help settle young refugees into their new lives in Australia through grants totaling $150,000. Teams and clubs can apply for sponsorship of up to $500 per player to help refugees cover costs such as registration, uniforms and playing equipment. For details go to: www.crc.nsw.gov.au/refugee\_youth\_sports\_sponsorship\_program

Tassie gets best ever results

Recently released ABS figures show that Tasmania has achieved its best ever results in participation levels for sport, recreation and physical activity. The 2011–12 figure for regular participation by people aged 15 and over in physical activity (at least three times a week) was 26.5 percent, which placed Tasmania second in relation to other states and territories, below only the ACT on 33.6 percent. This is a great result for the government and its agencies who have invested so much in assisting sporting organisations to grow the capacity of their sports.

ACT Winter Sport campaign

ACT Sport and Recreation recently used Play by the Rules as part of their Winter Sport campaign to encourage respect, equality and social inclusion in sport. The campaign used PBTR and radio messages from Brett White (Raiders), David Pocock (Brumbies), Phil Davis (GWS Giants) and Grace Gill (Canberra United), along with tweets from Minister Barr, and teams and state sporting organisations including: Canberra Cavalry, Cricket ACT, Hockey ACT, Netball ACT, Softball ACT, Canberra Gunners (+Basketball ACT), Tennis ACT (and Canberra Velocity), Suzuki-Bontrager (ACT Cycling team), Canberra Knights (ACT Ice Hockey), Volleyball ACT and Canberra Heat (volleyball) and Orienteering ACT.

Premier's Challenge a hit

The 2013 NSW Premier's Sporting Challenge includes a range of initiatives with a common purpose – to have more students, more active, more of the time!

Schools already registered in this year's Challenge will receive a newsletter and samples of Encouragement, Community and Hero Award certificates to help maintain momentum throughout the Challenge. There's also a new iPhone app for staff and secondary students to log activity time during the challenge. Click here for details.

Free posters for your club

If your club would like some Play by the Rules posters, flyers, respect cards or postcards to promote safe, fair and inclusive sport in your new member kits or to put up around your clubhouse, simply go to our resources section, download what you'd like and print out as many as you want. We also have A0 sized posters available which can be printed out and put up in stadiums or on fencing around playing fields – email admin@playbytherules.net.au to get the printer files for these posters.
